DETAILED ACTION

1. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 1/18/05 has been entered.

Claims 1-8 and 32-43 are pending in this application.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. Claims 1-8 and 32-43 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over combined teachings of Jeffery et al, Jerussi et al (US 6,331,571) and Fang et al (Tetrahedron Asymmetry, 1999).

Jeffery et al teach structurally similar compounds as claimed herein. See page 2583, compound 4 and 5a. Compound 5 expressly suggest stereoisomerisms similar to claimed herein. The difference between the reference and herein claimed compounds is the hydroxy substituent at different positions.

Jerussi et al is teaching structurally similar compounds as claimed herein, which have different stereoisomerisms, as claimed herein, see column 30, lines 45-50 and column 28, lines 50-55. The difference between the reference and herein claimed compounds is that the reference compounds do not have hydroxy substituent. Also note the reference teach method of preparing enantiomer, see column 27, lines 40-50.

Likewise, Fang et al is teaching preparation of enantiomerically pure sibutramine and its metabolite, which is similar to prepared in the instant specification.

It would have been prima facie obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to obtain compounds of Jeffery et al having hydroxy substituents in different positions, and obtain enantiomers using the process of Jerussi et al and Fang et al, with the reasonable expectation of achieving a successful enantiomers and their pharmaceutical compositions, absent evidence to the contrary. Note that positional isomers are prima facie obvious. In re Norris (CCPA 1950) 179 F2d 970, 84 USPQ 458.

Applicants' arguments were fully considered and are not found convincing. Applicants argue that a prima facie obvious has not been established, as the three basic criteria have not been met. Applicants have failed to point out as to what criteria have not been met. At the out set, there was no combination of prior art used in the previous rejection. Applicants' arguments that stereoisomerisms have not been taught by Jeffery is not convincing. See compound 5a. Also see Jerussi et al and Fang et al, which expressly teach the enantiomers and the process of preparing enantiomers. Applicants' arguments that Jeffery disclose that the pharmacological activity of sibutramine is mediated predominantly by sibutramine metabolites other than those claimed in this application is of little if any probative value inasmuch as the reference teach structurally similar compounds and its enantiomers. Applicants argue that the Jeffery teach that their compounds are pharmacologically inactive. The examiner did not find such statement in the reference. Notwithstanding that, Jerussi et al and Fang et al expressly teach that sibutramine are pharmacologically active.
